Criterion 4

d) Give specific examples of the whole school response to SpLD

At Burlington House School, we prioritise comprehensive student monitoring and assessment. Our data-driven approach includes initial assessments and six-monthly reviews to track individual progress. Metacognitive strategies are embedded throughout the curriculum, encouraging students to reflect on their learning styles and adapt their approaches accordingly. We focus on holistic development, assessing students across all skill areas to ensure well-rounded progress. Our multidisciplinary team includes Speech and Language Therapists (SLTs), Occupational Therapists (OTs), and School Counsellors. The SALT team supports students in developing strong communication skills, addressing language barriers that can impact learning. They also facilitate social-emotional development through initiatives like Group Communication sessions and 'Circle of Friends' groups.

OTs assess how sensory, motor, and cognitive factors may impact a student's learning and daily functioning. Through targeted interventions, they help students develop essential skills such as fine motor skills, attention, and self-regulation, ultimately enhancing their academic performance and overall well-being.

Consultant's comments

Classroom observations evidenced a clear transference of strategy to academic learning, whilst acknowledging and responding to the needs of the physical environment, for example wobble cushions, fidgets and reduced copying. All actions reflected diligence and care with a commitment to the needs of the individual students. The classroom observations saw the highly experienced staff providing an engaging and accessible environment for learning, with a seamless blending of strategy to meet need, such as individually tailored writing frames; altering the pace to allow for processing; verbal checking of understanding embedded in all stages of the lessons; allowing time for viewing and writing in response of information; signposting actions such as 'Do Now' clear and accessible. All teachers observed responded individually to pupils evidencing the use of data and information wisely.

Consultant's comments

The school focuses on an individual potential pupil and through a rigorous process identifies if those needs can be met, taking a holistic approach as many pupils come with co-occurring conditions. Within the school there are different areas of expertise to support these different diagnoses, this affirms the value of each pupil as an individual.

3. Identification and Assessment

Criterion 1
DSP 6.9

3. a) Give details of how you identify pupils in your school who have or are at risk of SpLD and when this takes place in the admissions process:

Burlington House School carefully selects students whose primary needs encompass dyslexia, dyspraxia, or both, or who require a small, nurturing environment. We may also consider students with co-morbid Specific Learning Difficulties (SpLDs) who would benefit from our expertise in supporting learners with dyslexia.

Admission involves a rigorous assessment process. Following initial review of application materials, prospective students are invited for two "Taster Days" to experience our learning environment. During these days, students engage in age-appropriate classroom activities, allowing teachers to observe their learning styles and academic abilities.

Our multidisciplinary team, including Speech and Language Therapists (SLTs) and Occupational Therapists (OTs), conducts brief screenings to further understand the student's needs. These screenings complement existing diagnostic information and help inform the admissions decision.

Careful consideration is given to the student's overall fit within our school community, including their social and emotional needs. We prioritise a smooth transition and ensure the student's academic and personal needs can be effectively met within our specialised setting

The school has a robust, thoughtful, realistic and clear process to ensure that needs of individuals can be met within the school, and support and signposting for any pupil when need cannot be met.

- b) Give details of what action you take when children are identified as at risk of SpLD

At Burlington House School, assessment is an ongoing process, incorporating both formative and summative approaches. We continuously monitor student progress and implement targeted interventions in literacy and numeracy as needed.

At Key Stage 4 and 5, we diligently identify and apply for appropriate access arrangements for examinations. Common access arrangements for our students include extra time, reader, and scribe. These supports ensure that all students have the opportunity to demonstrate their full potential in their examinations.

Consultant's comments

Assessment is undertaken with purpose and with appropriate review and action. The academic and pastoral progress of individual pupils is a reflection of this thoughtful and informed process.

- c) Give details of how children in your school can access a full assessment for SpLD

Prior to admission, students undergo a comprehensive assessment process. Our team utilises standardised assessments to identify specific learning difficulties in key areas such as phonological awareness, literacy, numeracy, speech and language (both expressive and receptive), social skills, visual perception, and auditory working memory. Upon completion of Year 11, students receive a thorough assessment from Occupational Therapists (OTs) and Speech and Language Therapists (SLTs). A detailed report summarising these assessments is provided to students and their families.

Consultant's comments

There is a supportive process for assessment.

4. Teaching and Learning

4. a) How is the week organised?

At Burlington House School, we deliver the National Curriculum, including a Modern Foreign Language (Spanish) Spanish. All lessons are 50 minutes in duration. At the Sixth Form, we offer A-Levels, BTECs, and Functional Skills courses, along with the opportunity to re-sit GCSE English and/or Mathematics.

From Key Stage 2 to Key Stage 4, students receive dedicated English and Mathematics lessons five times per week. Key Stage 3 includes two enrichment classes. Two dedicated Intervention Teachers provide one-on-one or small-group support to students who require additional assistance. At Key Stage 4, two 50-minute Study Skills lessons per week focus on developing effective revision techniques and promoting metacognitive learning strategies.

Consultant's comments

The pupils enjoy a broad curriculum with appropriate length of lesson.

- b) Details of arrangements for SpLD pupils, including prep / homework:

Tutor time at Key Stage 3 provide dedicated time for students to receive support with homework and classwork assignments. At Key Stage 4, tutor time is used to focus on developing essential study skills, such as time management and effective revision techniques.

Sixth Form students benefit from designated Study Periods on their timetable, providing valuable time for independent study. In Year 11, teachers offer additional support sessions during school breaks as needed. Furthermore, Sixth Form students have the flexibility to stay later after school for further study.

Consultant's comments

Tutors are a key point of contact for an overview of individual pupil progress, with tutor time being a valuable element in the curriculum.

Criterion
3 & 4

- c) Lesson preparation and delivery to meet the needs of SpLD pupils for:
- Curriculum subjects
 - Literacy support

All teachers adhere to a standardised lesson plan format. Each lesson begins with a clearly defined learning objective and incorporates a range of differentiated activities to cater to diverse learning styles. Lessons are readily accessible to students via Google Classroom, where homework assignments are also posted. Parents are granted access to their child's Google Classrooms. Medium-term plans are integrated within comprehensive schemes of work, which are publicly available on the school website. These medium-term plans serve as a foundation for the development of detailed weekly lesson plans.

Consultant's comments

The lesson delivery reflect the knowledge and training of the staff, with the engagement observed in the classroom being a testament to teachers understanding of the needs of each individual. The size of the classes further enables highly nuanced strategies which provides a positive learning environment. Strategies observed included; use of google classroom to avoid having to copy from whiteboard; colour coding of sheets to support reading and avoid loss of place; use of overlays for reading; prepared writing frames to support learning; individual whiteboards to support notetaking; allowing additional writing time and processing time for information; use of tools such as google focus tool, owned and managed by the an individual pupil to avoid distraction and improve focus; breaking down of information such as breakdown of quote analysis; reference and link to previous learning and checking verbally for existing knowledge

d) Use of provision maps/IEP's (or equivalent):

Individual Curriculum Maps are developed and reviewed each term in collaboration between teachers and therapists. These maps outline specific learning targets for each student. Progress is reviewed jointly by teachers and therapists on a termly basis, and this information is subsequently shared with parents.

Please indicate two examples enclosed

e) Records and record keeping:

All student information is stored on Schoolbase; this includes effort and achievement grades, ICM's and general student information. The SENCo at all sites keeps all EHCP, annual review information in e-box file on the shared drive.

Consultant's comments

Records are appropriately kept and available to staff through the shared drive.

Criterion 3

h) Any other relevant information, e.g. details of any other examinations taken, literacy/numeracy assessments:

We use the following GL Assessment tests;

CAT4UK

We have a series of assessments and examination cycles. We assess students' reading and spelling scores at the start of each year for KS2 & 3 students- NGRT & NGST.

We use GL Assessment tests for each year at KS3 in English, Maths and Science. We use this information to generate teaching and learning strategies for every student- PTE, PTM, PTS

We use CATs tests from Year 8 to assess students and inform ourselves of GCSE predictions.

For KS4 we offer a mixture of GCSE examinations, Entry Level Certificate and Cambridge National Qualifications. Year 11, 12 and 13 mock exams are held in January. The Sixth Form also uses NGRT and CAT4 UK to assist in the tracking of progress/prediction for lesson groups.

KS2 and KS3 (Y7&8) We also use HAST spelling assessment test as well as York Assessment of Reading for Comprehension (YARC). Phonics testing and visual stress assessments are carried out across the year groups KS2 and KS3. To determine which pupils need extra support we use information from YARC, phonics screening, HAST-2, RWI (read write inc) phonics assessments and through conversations with the class teacher. We write a personal learning plan (PLP) for each pupil.

Re: Fresh start programme (RWI) is used for older pupils who are struggling with reading. For Maths assessments we use GL PTM and during any taster days we use a Basic Number Screening Test.

Consultant's comments

The school has a broad range of assessments that are carefully selected to provide insight to tailor learning to enable individual progress.

5. Facilities and Equipment for Access to Teaching of SpLD Pupils

Criterion 5.1 5. a) General resources for teaching SpLD pupils:

Our main school building is comparatively small and located on a quiet avenue with nearby parks. The school has recently had a refurbishment. We create dyslexia friendly atmosphere through a variety of ways. We have interactive boards in every teaching room. All lessons take place on google classroom. OT provide a variety of equipment for students to use in lessons as a means of support.

The Prep school opened in September 2022. It is a spacious school with smart boards in each classroom. Across the three sites we promote the use of dyslexia-friendly fonts and colours and fonts, and the provision of specialist equipment such as colored overlays and reading rulers. All classrooms have sensory toolkits and we seek to minimal visual clutter. All sites use text-to-speech software, speech-to-text software and assistive technology to help with planning and organisation. Teachers use Trelson as a digital tool for knowledge assessment and everyday teaching tasks, supporting both teachers and students during tests and formal exams.

Consultant's comments

The school has excellent resources both physically and digitally to support learning, embracing whatever can support an individual pupil to progress and develop. The following are some examples observed: laptops; software tools such as google focus, google classroom; fidgets, headphones for software; wobble cushions; turn taking tools such as balls and individual whiteboards.

Criterion 5.2

b) ICT:

All students have access to a wireless enabled laptop computer with reading and speech recognition software. There is a class set of Macs for KS4 lessons. Access Arrangements allow for students to use headphones for voice to text transcription.

KS2 and KS3 students use a touch type program. Staff receive regular training on how to effectively use and integrate technology into their teaching. The school is currently piloting the use Teach Mate AI to make staff aware of its potential to enhance learning for students and increase student voice and participation.

Consultant's comments

On the day of the visit, this was not observed, staff suggested that pupils may use this more when in a space away from the classroom setting.

Criterion 5.3

c) Details of access (special examination) arrangements requested and made for SpLD pupils:

KS4 and KS5 students use Access Arrangements for all external and internal exams. These include extra time, reader, scribe, language modifier, and rest breaks.

Extra time allows students to process information at their own pace. Scribes enable students to focus on their thoughts and ideas without the burden of handwriting. Specific access arrangements are tailored to the individual needs of each student based on their assessed requirements.

Consultant's comments

The school adheres to the guidance and requirements of JQC

Criterion 5.4

d) Library:

Since the last inspection the school has significantly expanded its Senior library which comprises a wide range of fiction and non-fiction texts which are all colour coded to match reading ages to particular students. A range of genre and themes are covered: classics, contemporary literature, biographies, graphic novels and reference books.

The library is in a spacious area with generous and comfortable seating. There is a comprehensive library provision across the sites. As an example, the range of genres or themes covered include classics, contemporary literature, biographies, graphic novels and reference books.

The sixth form library has been developed as well as at the Prep site. Fiction books have been regrouped and coloured coded and placed in alphabetical order of author. A simplified 'dewey' system for Non-Fiction books has been adopted. Books have been added to Booksource Classroom, with the full details of author, title and genre including adding an image of the actual book cover. Initiatives to encourage student engagement with the library are being established presently.

Certain authors / subjects have been highlighted via displaying the books with some information about the subject matter. This has included 'Classics' in dyslexia friendly font and the history behind the 'poppy' for Remembrance Sunday.

Further plans to involve student engagement with the library include:

- Library clubs or reading groups to foster a love of reading and provide opportunities for peer interaction.
- Author visits or reading events: these can make the library a more dynamic and exciting space.
- Student librarians: involving students in library management can promote responsibility and ownership.

Consultant's comments

There has been a focus on redevelopment of the library spaces, reflecting the dedication of staff who are knowledgeably supporting this renewal. Both staff should be commended for their diligence and care in connecting with the needs of the pupils in the school and seeking to find innovative ways, such as visual image coding to aid selection as well as aiming to make the taking of books pupil led through software. These are calm ordered spaces which provide autonomy to the pupils in their book selection.
